

Technical Assessment with Solutions

www.shopsees.com

I chanced upon your website the other day and found it to be offering some great services. However, the design is lagging.

Why is it important?

A visitor forms an opinion about your website within 50 milliseconds. And design plays a key role in arresting attention.

For more business inward, you should consider re-designing and re-developing some parts of your website. I have worked on a similar website (case study) and overhauled its brand identity with a new and improved website.
